Two Courses - One Club

The Mayfield golf course traces its history back to 1908 when a group of Members from the Euclid Club, desiring to play more than nine holes, purchased 235 acres at the end of the Mayfield Road trolley line. W.H. "Bertie" Way was selected to design the golf course and became the first head golf professional. He remained the head golf professional for 51 years.

Mayfield is a traditional golf course with rolling natural terrain. Two tributaries of Euclid Creek traverse and define the layout, which features tree-lined fairways, rolling hills, and fast greens. The overall yardage is deceiving as the layout includes five par 3's.

Since the golf course opened in 1911, it has played host to many championships. The club hosted the 1919 Western Open, 1920 Women's National Championship, 1927 Ohio Women's Championship, 1929 Women's Western Championship, and 1990 Women's Ohio State Amateur Championship. The club also held the 1941 Ohio Open, where Byron Nelson shot a competitive course record 63 which still stands to this day. The course continues to welcome amateur and professional events, and its challenge has stood the test of time.

Sand Ridge dates to 1992, when chairman of Fairmount Minerals and avid golfer William Conway approached world-renowned golf course architect Tom Fazio, igniting the designer's creative drive by showing him the beauty of the land: 370 acres of woods, pastures, and wetlands located next to the Fairmount Minerals sandstone quarry in Chardon. They envisioned a world-class course for enthusiasts of the undiluted game – pure golf, a traditional caddie program, and a routing plan that is challenging yet fair.

Tom Fazio's first Ohio golf course is a natural masterpiece. Situated in the western foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, the course features gently rolling countryside, dramatic elevation changes, unique wetlands, and a plentiful mix of mature hardwoods. Fazio's design made brilliant use of the five natural wetlands present on Sand Ridge's acreage. Not only is the course's beauty enhanced by the wetland's presence, Sand Ridge was the first course in Ohio, and one of a select few in the world, to be designated as a certified Audubon International Signature Wildlife Sanctuary.

Course construction started in late 1995, and the course opened on May 18, 1998. Fazio's spectacular course design has attracted both local and national acclaim. The club has received numerous awards and was ranked as high as America's 52nd best golf course by Golf Digest. Sand Ridge has hosted numerous USGA qualifiers including the U.S. Open, U.S. Amateur Four-Ball, U.S. Junior Amateur and U.S. Senior Amateur. Sand Ridge has also served as a host course for Korn Ferry Tour Q-School.

THE HISTORY

On March 1, 2006, the boards of Mayfield and Sand Ridge stunned Cleveland's country club world by announcing their intention to merge operations and memberships. On May 1, 2006, after a favorable vote of over 90% of both club memberships, Mayfield and Sand Ridge commenced operations as The Mayfield Sand Ridge Club.

This type of combination, never before undertaken in Northeast Ohio, resulted in a private club with matchless services and amenities. Mayfield Sand Ridge members have access to two top-tier golf courses and two beautiful clubhouses, as well as enviable swimming, tennis, fine dining, and banquet facilities.

Oakwood Club, established in 1905, was the fourth golf club organized in the Cleveland area. Oakwood was established by several prominent Jewish merchants and business professionals. In 2009 the membership still included many descendants of the founders of the club. Oakwood Club and The Mayfield Sand Ridge Club agreed to combine in 2010 and effective April 1, 2010, approximately 300 former Oakwood families joined with the existing 500 plus Mayfield Sand Ridge members.

In 2018, Cleveland area businessman and philanthropist Monte Ahuja purchased The Mayfield Sand Ridge Club from the membership. Mr. Ahuja, who also owns Barrington Golf Club in Aurora, OH, made immediate investments in the golf courses and clubhouses. More than 650 families currently enjoy membership at Northeast Ohio's most diverse and unique country club, Mayfield Sand Ridge.
